

National Security Law - New Voices in National Security Scholarship Works in Progress

The AALS Section on National Security Law invites abstracts for a junior faculty works-in-progress program at the January 2020 Annual Meeting. Papers may concern any matter related to national security law. Papers must be still in progress (for example, papers may be accepted for publication, but with revisions still underway) as of the time of the Annual Meeting in January 2020. Abstracts must be no longer than 1,000 words. “Junior faculty” is defined as faculty who have been in a full-time teaching position for seven years or less as of the submission deadline. Please submit your abstract by September 15, 2019 at 5:00 p.m. E.S.T. to Professor Emily Berman and Professor Dakota Rudesill at the following email addresses: eberman@Central.uh.edu and rudesill.2@osu.edu thank you. Junior scholars whose proposals are accepted will present their articles at the January 2020 meeting, exact date TBD.
